Textured blacks

The concept: embracing the dark themes highlighted in the Conscious Subcultures theme from our Future Innovation forecast, and influenced by the growth of the #Metaverse, textured blacks will add a bold aesthetic to accessories and footwear, mixing otherworldly, utilitarian and gothic aesthetics.

Surface and materials: as textured materials and finishes are a must, opt for responsible leathers or leather alternatives with cracked, embossed, sleek and tooled finishes, referencing the intricate belt design by LA-based brand Streets Ahead. #3DPrinting helps to create digitally appealing, adaptive designs and also serves as a sustainable and cost-effective solution for reducing waste.

How to implement: opt for monotone #BlackWithBlack constructions, or create contrast by pairing different materials, including #Beads, that create texture. For eyewear, use this look to update #FutureFrames and #ShieldShades, noted at French brand Givenchy.

Modern armour hardware

The concept: responding to the multiple crises that are being experienced globally, collective feelings such as anxiety, fear and anger manifest in fashion, resulting in an edgy yet elevated aesthetic.

Details: evolving A/W 23/24's refined punk theme, statement #MetalHardware updates with an armour-like appearance. Protective components including #ChunkyChains, studs, spikes, chainmail, mesh, metal rings, eyelets and grommets are key, seen in the S/S 23 collection of French brand Paco Rabanne.

How to implement: work with recycled metals in a range of tones and finishes. Combine with responsibly sourced leather or leather alternatives for bags, belts and footwear. As this story is ideal for #BodyJewellery, create ergonomic contoured designs, as seen at Argentinian brand Holón.

Relevant for: footwear, accessories, jewellery, watches
