

EXTRA TIME

ALMA TZUR

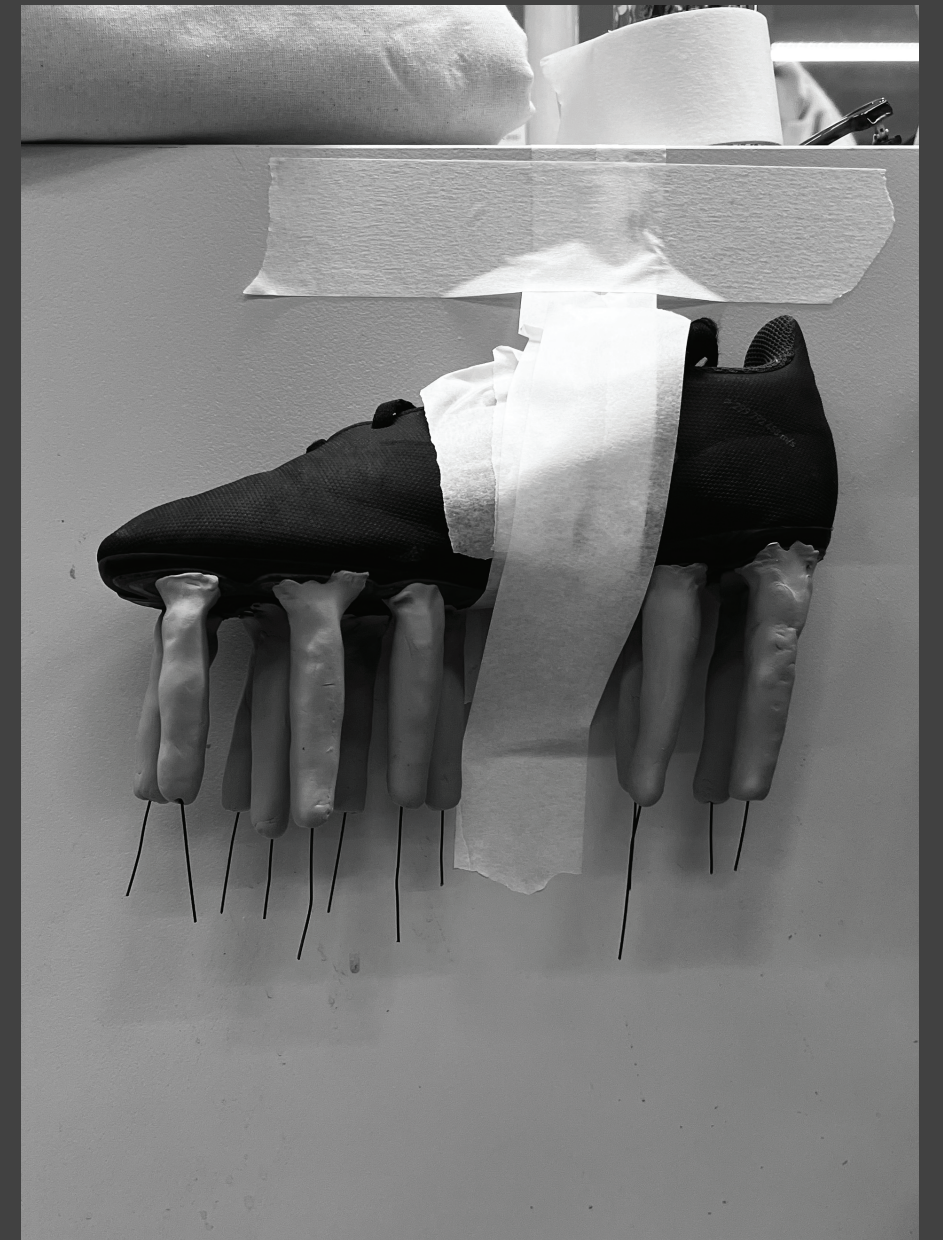

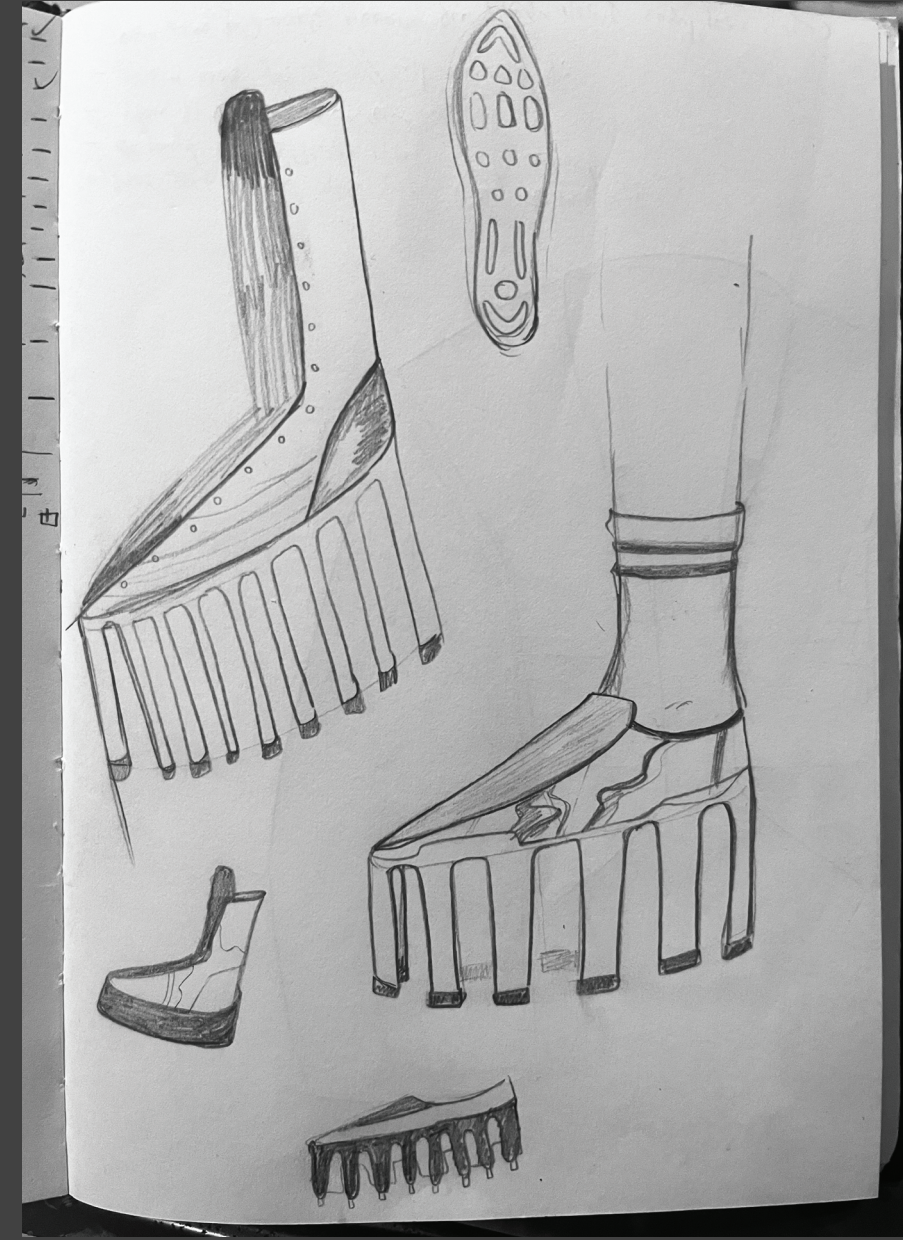

BETZALEL ACADEMY

INSPIRATION

My project emerged from the sense of uncertainty that has characterized the recent years, and from a search for belonging and stability within an ever-changing reality. I chose the world of soccer as my starting point because, to me, it represents a language of identity, community, and order—one in which uniforms and symbols become anchors within a world that feels as though it is falling apart.

The shoes offer a reinterpretation of classic soccer cleats. Rather than connecting the body to the ground, they elevate it, creating a sense of protection. The combination of leather and wool with nylon and performance fabrics creates a dialogue between weight and movement.

Through this collection, I sought to explore how clothing can become a means of survival, belonging, and hope within a world in constant transformation.

SKETCHES

FINISHED SHOES

